The screenshot displays the '旬食予報' (Seasonal Food Forecast) page for Unagi (うなぎ). At the top, there is a large image of an eel with the text '旬食予報' and 'うなぎ'. Below this, a map of Japan shows the distribution of unagi across various prefectures, including Iwate, Aomori, Ibaraki, Tochigi, Gunma, Saitama, Chiba, Tokyo, Kanagawa, and Mie. The page includes a section titled '10月の旬食は うなぎ' (October's seasonal food is unagi) and another section '旬食予報' (Seasonal Food Forecast) with a table showing the forecast for October, November, and December. The table indicates that unagi is the seasonal food for October and November, and is forecasted for December. Below the table, there are three columns of text providing information about unagi, such as its nutritional benefits and how to enjoy it. At the bottom of the page, there are images of various seasonal ingredients like persimmon, apple, pear, chestnut, and chestnut, and a section for '旬食予報アーカイブ' (Seasonal Food Forecast Archive) with images of other seasonal foods like iwashi, sardine, sardine, and sardine.
